STUDENT GOVERNMENT PRESIDENT

GREGORY KING

STUDENT GOVERNMENT PRESIDENTS' MESSAGE

Any evaluation must first begin with a definition of that which is to be evaluated. Thus it is with any evaluation of the Kentucky State University Student Government Association.

Webster defines the term "association" as an organization of persons having a common interest. Can this definition be applied to this government? When we review our own constitution, we find that Webster's definition does apply to this agency. Article I, Section 2, clearly states that "The Student Government Association shall be the governing body in matters pertaining to the common interest of the students,". This statement continues but for our purposes the excerpt about will suffice.

Now that the nature and scope of the Student Government Association has been determined it is time for you to participate in the evaluation process. It is for you to determine if this government has worked for you. It is you again, who must look back through the pages of history of this Student Government administration to ascertain whether or not its aims and programs have truly reflected the desires of the student body. Above all, it is you who must answer the question is Student government effective and useful?

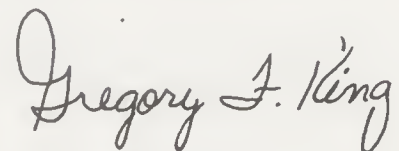

Answering these questions is not your only obligation to the evaluation. You should know why you answered the questions in the way you did. This involves knowing what programs have been developed, the purposes of the programs and the procedures used to implement them. If you are deficient in this information, your evaluation will surely yield much misinformation and many inept conclusions.

After having completed all the necessary functions in your evaluation you should arrive at one very fundamental conclusion. That is that the association is yours and it is you who should accept any words of praise for its efficiency. Conversely, it is you who should accept any ramifications resulting from an incompetent government. You alone decided the composition of this body because your vote determined who would represent you in the association. More explicitly, you composed the government.

This little exercise is by no means an attempt to disown any criticisms due this administration. It is, however, an attempt to show you that your responsibility does not end with your vote. Nor does it end with your mere presence at an S. G. A. meeting. In fact it can never end as long as you are a student. If we consider the larger society as our frame of reference, then necessarily our student days are relegated to the context of a laboratory period. From this we can infer that responsibility actually never ends. Many of the same situations which you have encountered in your days as a collegian will confront you again when you have left this campus. The only difference will be in the extent of the implications of these situations. Again, you will be assessed some of the responsibility for whatever these events bring about.

Hopefully, the next Student Government administration will enjoy your every support and confidence. This means your physical presence, your mental awareness and foremost your commitment to the concept of responsibility.

In conclusion I wish to thank the student body for expressing its confidence in me and I sincerely thank those innumerable students and professional who have helped me in my attempts to justify your confidence.

TRACK TEAM

The edition of the Kentucky State University track and field team is attempting to rebuild to the prominence enjoyed by the N.C.A.A. Champions of 1971. Competing in the tough Central Collegiate Conference, Kentucky State University's athletes have always done well but lacked overall depth to win the Championship.

During Coach Gibson's tenure at Kentucky State University he has produced several Central Collegiate Conference Champions, 10 All-Americans and N.C.A.A. College Division Team Championship. He was also named N.C.A.A. College Coach of the Year in 1971. This year's team lists several athletes with potential to earn All-American honors. These are Mellilo Abernathy, Anthony Rollins, Randolph Williams, Tony Bullock, Charles Taylor, and Ed Merriman.

It is hoped that the new Eight-Lane All-Weather facility at Kentucky State University will soon be completed so that the student body will be able to enjoy the performance of the Thorobred Speedsters at home.

EDITOR'S MESSAGE

Now that all the work is over, the pleasures is here. We hope that this yearbook exemplifies the real student life here at K.S.U. — no better, no worse. As the school year comes to a close, may I plea for greater unity among our student body — that we may all work together for our previous committments, our daily welfare and a prosperous and promising future.

Well, this is the end everybody. There's nothing else to say except thanks to my staff for working so hard. The last page is in, the last layout is finished and all the headaches are over. I am grateful to all those who willingly shared their valuable time and efforts to help in the production of this prized possession. Mention must be made of our advisor, Mrs. Ethel McLendon for her professional assistance and supervision. Much thanks to Anthony Remson and John Trigg for giving me a hand with the photography.

THIS IS THE PLACE
